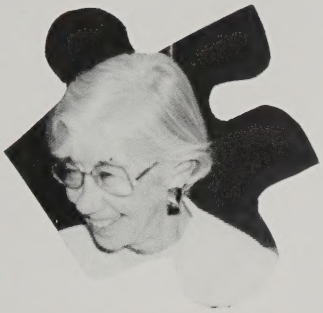
Dedication



Love is the best word to use when describing Mrs. Anne McDonald. She loves literature. She loves teaching. She loves knowledge. And, most importantly, she loves her students.

No other teacher at Seekonk High asks her classes if they "did anything cultural over the weekend." She always tries to enliven our minds with great pieces of writing, and encourages us to produce great works ourselves. And, whenever Trinity Repertory puts on a production of worth we can almost guarantee that tickets will be ordered for us by the next day. Otherwise, not many of us would ever get to see theater. Without a doubt, Mrs. McDonald has broadened the cultural horizons of every student she has ever taught. This year she accompanied some of us on a trip to France. She goes above and beyond the boundaries of the classroom educate us.

In addition to this, she has been our co-class advisor for the past four years. Always there with her warm smile, we would be remiss to ever forget the look of delight on her face as she saw her transformed students climb the stairs of the Biltmore to their prom. Everyone knew that she felt sheer joy at just seeing us enjoy ourselves.

Many kind souls like Mrs. McDonald too often go overlooked. We hope that this short testimony to her does her justice, and reminds us years from now how much a good heart can influence others.

THANK YOU

It's quite fitting that Mrs. McDonald and Ms. Corrigan are the class advisors of the class of 1994. While Mrs. McDonald enlightens us through literature, Ms. Nancy Corrigan does the same with art.

We have been very fortunate to have such a strong art department. In tough times the arts are what usually are cut in school budgets. Fortunately, Ms. Corrigan has helped to produce students of high ability no matter the circumstances. Thanks to her, many talented artists are flourishing at Seekonk High School or in college or the work field, while others that never knew that they had any talent at all have been given a new gift. Not only does Ms. Corrigan teach, she has also become our friend by always listening with welcoming ears and speaking with kind words.

Always the typical woman of class, she enjoys bringing the finer parts of life alive to us. Her trips to the Rhode Island School of Design Art Museum have allowed students to see the broad spectrum of painting and sculpting. She continued in this spirit when she chaperoned us all over Europe.

Thanks to her our days of study were made brighter. Art class became a popular refuge from the stress of academics, and our class activities have created happy memories. We hope she realizes how much we appreciate her efforts. Our days with her will never be forgotten because she has helped us to develop talents that will last a lifetime.

In Appreciation

When we first came to Seekonk High School it was in desperate need of repair. No one liked going to a school in a community that did not support them financially or spiritually. It's no wonder that morale here came to such a low. Seekonk High was in trouble and needed someone or something to save it.

One man greatly responsible for the change that has taken place at Seekonk High is teacher, coach, and Project Renaissance Advisor Mr. Frank Mooney.

During our junior year, Mr. Mooney and some students decided that if we wanted pride in our school again we'd have to take our school back and make it our own. That led to the Pride Committee, which later blossomed into Project Renaissance. Assemblies were held featuring our many talented students. The walls were decorated with murals done by our artists. Soon, word was getting out that there was something different about Seekonk High. Suddenly, we felt proud to be here.

Without Mr. Mooney, our high school years might have been pretty bad. He nipped a problem in the bud, and brought us a rebirth. For that Mr. Mooney, we cannot thank you enough.

Everyday, there is a warm smile that greets us as we come and go from class to class. It belongs to a woman that listens to our thoughts and is genuinely interested in our lives. She is without a doubt a friend to all. That woman is teacher, coach, and friend Mrs. Karen Fantozzi.

For many seasons she has coached the successful Field Hockey team, and has lent her hand to the Track, Basketball, and Tennis teams as well when asked to do so. Many of us will always remember the intense volleyball tournaments she conducted during exam weeks. When Seekonk was going through its rough period, she was right there encouraging us to not give up hope. She knew it had been better before and would be better again. She was constantly telling us that we have rights as students, and that we should fight for those rights.

Fanny is always there at our matches, meets, and games. She has helped us to victory and supported us in defeat. She is the epitome of enthusiasm. We can only hope that the future graduates of Seekonk High School find her as special as we have.

As we come closer and closer to college, it becomes more apparent to us how necessary a strong academic background is. This is usually achieved in two parts. One is the effort one puts into one's studies. The second is the depth and strength of the curriculum one takes. In our high school years, Mr. Stephen Murphy changed to Dr. Stephen Murphy. Along with this change, we saw a change in the curriculum at Seekonk High School with the help of Dr. Stephen Murphy, Curriculum Coordinator and English teacher.

Dr. Murphy's classes are tough. After having him for a teacher, you can't believe how many books and short stories have been written since the beginning of time. No one goes off to college or to the work force saying that Dr. Murphy left them unprepared. And now, as Curriculum Coordinator, students will be better prepared in no matter what subject matter they pursue. Every student owes a little something to Dr. Murphy. The yearbook staff thanks you for being our advisor, and the class of 1994 (especially Josh) thanks you for your warmth, your sense of humor, and the change, you are bringing to our soon to be alma mater.

Emancipation: A Life Fable

There was once an animal born into this world, and opening his eyes upon Life, he saw above him and about him confining walls, and before him were bars of iron through which came air and light from without; this animal was born in a cage.

Here he grew, and throve in strength and beauty under care of an invisible protecting hand. Hungering, food was ever at hand. When he thirsted water was brought, and when he felt the need of rest, there was provided a bed of straw upon which to lie: and here he found it good, licking his handsome flanks, to bask in the sun beam that he thought existed but to lighten him home.

Awakening one day from his slothful rest, lo! the door of his cage stood open: accident had opened it. In the corner he crouched, wondering and fearingly. Then slowly did he approach the door, dreading the unaccustomed, and would have closed it, but for such a task his limbs were purposeless. So out the opening he thrust his head, to see the canopy of the sky grow broader, and the world waxing wider.

Back to his corner but not for rest, for the spell of the Unknown was over him, and again and again he goes to the open door, seeing each time more Light.

Then one time standing in the flood of it; a deep in-drawn breath — a bracing of strong limbs, and with a bound he was gone.

On he rushes, in his mad flight, heedless that he is wounding and tearing his sleek sides — seeing, smelling, touching of all things; even stopping to put his lips to the noxious pool, thinking it may be sweet.

Hungering there is no food but such as he must seek and oft times fight for; and his limbs are weighted before he reaches the water that is good to his thirsting throat.

So does he live, seeking, finding, joying and suffering. The door which accident had opened is open still, but the cage remains forever empty!

What do you get when you mix sport jackets, velvet, platform shoes, all the food you can eat, and lots of dancing? Why the Senior Supper of course. Once again, Seekonk seniors gathered at the Top of the Court, on January 29th from 6-10 p.m., to celebrate seniordom. Most striking of the evening was the girl to guy ratio, which the women of Seekonk ignored to take full control of the dance floor. The night began with a tribute to disco. "I Will Survive" and "We Are Family" soon made some of the boys jealous, so they jumped in with the Village People's "Y.M.C.A." Lisa and Deanne strutted their country stuff with some line dancing, and everyone sang from the dinner tables to Billy Joel's "Piano Man". The Flip Side brought us all back to the dance floor once we had finished our pasta, chicken parmesan, and potatoes. Dinner must have put the boys in a dancing mood because Jerry got a little wild and started a strip show. It must be noted that Steve Marshall was the only one to show any actual skin. But, Amy Devine put us all to shame by dancing at almost any possible moment. From there, we did the "Car Wash" and the "Hand Jive," as enthusiastically requested by Julie Byrne. Queen Latifah's "U.N.I.T.Y." solidified the feeling of girls' night out. And of course, what Seekonk High function would be complete without the "Electric Slide"? The night ended with Billy Joel's "This is the Time". How right he was.

"Oh stop that!"

At S.H.S., a dance doesn't always necessitate a date. So, as April 4, 1993 drew closer, juniors were not only "shopping" for dresses and tuxes, but also for that special someone. The victors received a wonderful night at the Omni-Biltmore Hotel in Providence, dancing to the prom theme of Peter Gabriel's "In Your Eyes." As a bonus, many took a few trips in the hotel's infamous glass elevator. All this plus dinner for thirty-three dollars a ticket. And, at the dinner tables the attire was chic. Girls wore everything from a feather boa, to floral dresses, to traditional gowns. It should also be noted that there were a few identical dresses. The boys matched their cumberbunds and ties to their dates' dresses. With the exception of a few white tuxes, the color of the night was definitely basic black. Music, supplied by The Flip Side, provided us with songs like "Jump Around" (which we used to prove that high heels are easy to jump in) and a reprise of the lip sync's "Rump Shaker" led by Amy Marchand and Shannon Gallagher. The most memorable portion of the evening was the "tasty" creme de mente on the ice cream, also known as "green stuff". After the dance, everyone returned to their limos or cars to be whisked away to all-night parties or the Rocky Horror Picture Show, complete with toast and toilet paper.

With a respectable 9-11 season the Softball team of 1993 should be very proud of their efforts. Led by captain Erica Lima, the team lost only four seniors, and should be strong in 1994 with the pitching of Lynn Russell. Without a doubt this team really knew how to fight for a win. A game with Dighton-Rehoboth and a game with Attleboro stretched out to eight innings, and their last game with Wareham went to nine. Danielle Solotke was strong in the field and Caryn Tobiasz was fierce up at bat. Sarah Lawrence was amazing to watch pitch. Carissa McCarthy is also sure to do well in 1994. Courtnee Saleeba, Kathy Pearson, and Erin Matton, all veterans of the field, will help to lead the team to victory. There is also a wealth of talent on the Junior Varsity team for Coach Bowlin to pick from. Kim Hallal, Sarah Field, and Sarah Wolstencroft are all quick and natural athletes who will undoubtedly have no trouble replacing the graduates of 1993.

Thank goodness for New Testament. This small team provided the Baseball team of 1993 their only two wins of the entire season. Although the boys worked hard, victory was not the taste in their mouths too often throughout the spring. It seemed that the grass was always on the other side of the field. But Seekonk did consist of some talent. Adam Mancini will be instilling fear from the pitcher's mound in batters in seasons to come. The four graduating seniors: Pat, Gus, Jay and Chris have played their hearts out for many seasons, but did not have the great senior season that they planned. C'est La vie. But, the team has Brian Rickard, Jeff DaCosta, Mike Bedrossian, and Dave Saad to carry them next season before they leave the field for graduation. Mike DiPietro, Jon Ring, John Celio, and Darren Damiani are still young, and with the help of the upcoming varsity players, should see winning scoreboards in no time flat.

"It's your birthday! Get stupid!" No, Arsenio was not a member of the tennis team, but Christina Keiser, the epitome of team spirit, brought enthusiasm like his to the team. Junior Katie Burns (and her racket Baby Blue) had an outstanding season at first singles with a 9-5 record. She made the South Coast Conference All-Star team, while senior co-captain Laura Moreno made honorable mention. At doubles Tania Tracy, Jean Pierce, Sarah Berry, Jennifer Pezzullo, and Amie Geoffroy also had successful seasons full of improvement. Elizabeth Dunn was the most pleasing surprise of the season at third singles. Her developed skill brought her many fine victories. Kelly Hawkins, Jen Eno, Holly Roberge, Jessica Broomhead, and Amy Zimmerman are sure to see a lot of varsity play in the upcoming years. During the camping trip fiasco, Amy and Jen played their hearts out, but it wasn't enough to beat D-R. In '94, Coach Curran hopes to make it to the state tournament, and with this crew she probably will.

In the spirng of 1993, Coach Ron Ridolfi saw, what some believe to be, his favorite group of seniors ever graduate. It will be tough replacing a doubles team like that of Kevan Zipin and Jeremy Ray, or the great playing of Jason Titone and Alan Yim. These boys had not only great strokes, but power as well. Most likely, Dan Zipin will take the lead in rebuilding in the 1994 season. Chris Armstrong also looks like he will be climbing his way up the varsity ladder. Ryan Reeves is a young player, but he is determined and wants to do well, so it is expected that he will improve greatly in the next seasons. Coach Ridolfi has never had any trouble developing young boys into fine tennis players. So, it looks like with a few adjustments over the next year or two, things will be back to normal in Ridolfi's court. Tennis training will be at its finest, complete with ghostbuster pack leaf blower.

The future looks bright for Coach Gary Seal if his underclassmen keep up the work they did in the spring of 1993. Although he lost such senior standouts as captain Danielle Jenkins and Heather Whitelaw, the talents of Corrie Marshall, Kim Hanoian, Krista Geoffrey, Carol Gamboa, and Julie Finley (just to name a few) should keep him smiling. Kim set a new school record in the shot put with a throw of 35' 6¼", and made the Sun Chronicle and South Coast Conference All-Star teams. Another school record was set by Danielle Jenkins in the discus with a throw of 116'1", and she also made both the Sun and S.C.C. teams. And, the 4X1 Mile Relay team of Amy Marchand, Corrie Marshall, Chrissy Marshalewski, and Kelly Lyons set another school record with a time of 4:26.4. Kelly Lyons was also named to the S.C.C. All-Star team, as were Amy Marchand, and Amy Arters with honorable mentions. Jennifer Kenyon, a captain along with Amy Marchand and Danielle, should be powerful next season.

Once again, the members of the Boys' Outdoor Track team demonstrated that they can handle the pressure of competition with individual and team accomplishments. In 1993, seniors Wan Park, Dan Pederson, John Lund, Seth Roy, and Jared Geleney all did exceptionally well in their last track season at Seekonk High School. But, that doesn't mean that underclassmen didn't have their days in the sun as well. Aaron Shield, Joe Beauchaine, and Mike Lund have demonstrated time and time again that they will be kings of the field by the time that they are seniors. And, the members of the class of 1994 did outstanding as well. Steve Stock and his trusty shot had many placements. Mike Carney and Kevin Santos were among tops in that class as well. In the future, we can expect to see a great deal from Steve DiLustro, Chris Seal, Jeff Benoit, and even more from Jon Finley.

Frank Iannetta, Seekonk High's new head football coach, not only led his team, but also instilled much pride in his players. This pride spread throughout the entire student body. Unlike past seasons, Connolly Field was packed with students every home game. Senior tri-captains Jim Maiato, Joe Saunders, and Mike Farrell played an important role in the stability of the team. Joe was the only Seekonk player to be named to the Sun Chronicle's All-Star Team. Mike Bedrossian who was previously known for his basketball skill, played his first season of football. His height and quickness allowed him to add football to his outstanding S.H.S. athletic career. Steve Stock and his absolute love for the game played intensely and fiercely. Mike Vieira played a steady game. He may not have gotten a lot of recognition, but he was always ready. Also showing the strength of the senior class were Dave Saad, Kevin Santos, Dave Pereira, Jerry Mizner, and Mike Carney. As for the underclassmen, Seekonk has a star quarterback in Joe Wills. Ryan Sorafine looked good as well. Paul Elderkin was sidelined with an early season injury, but should see a great season next year.

The Volleyball team had its share of unexpected ups and downs, but the perennial talent of Seekonk was there. Junior Middle Hitter, Danielle Solotke was again dazzling at the net with her aggressive hitting. Also, thanks to her, the team had inspirational music before each home game. Danielle was named the team's MVP and selected as an S.C.C All-Star. Seniors Julie Collins and Katie Burns made honorable mention on that list. Sophomores Beth Laprade and Carol Gamboa were essential with their net and back row play respectively. The setting team of Sarah "quack,quack" Winn and Kim Hallal were quick at the fingers. Sarah played with practically broken fingers in the last game against Old Rochester.

Graduating seniors include co-captains Katie Burns and Kelly Cronin (coach's award), Julie Collins, Lynn Russell and Tania Tracy. Freshman Aimee Jenkins is expected to help the returning players in court action next year.

The fall of 1993 was full of hard work and determination for the soccer team, yet they suffered another unsuccessful season. Captains Jeff DaCosta, Steve Nerone, Dan Zipin, and DiLustro did a great job of keeping the team's spirit up, and keeping them unified. Unfortunately, Steve Nerone was injured early in the season and couldn't participate on the field. Mauricio Lucio, an exchange student from Brazil, was chosen as a member of the South Coast Conference All-Star team, and was Seekonk's leading scorer. Sophomore Jon Ring made a record number of saves, and senior Brian Rickard, although a newcomer to the game, was a surprise asset to the team. As always, Coach Williams was very uplifting throughout the season, and always had a positive attitude. As a second year coach at Seekonk High School, he has great hope for the seasons to come. His boys have a great deal of talent and will taste victory someday.

The Girls' Cross Country team was virtually unbeatable in the South Coast Conference. They had an undefeated season until they were confronted with Old Rochester who also had a flawless record. The loss was heartbreaking, but they quickly moved on to finish the season with an 8-1 overall record. They vindicated their previous loss to O.R.R. by defeating them and placing first at the League Meet.

As usual, the team had a few conference all-stars. This year Amy Marchand, Lori Wood, and Kelly Lyons were chosen. Coach Ellis Mayers of the Swim Team was sad to see three year swimmer Kelly Lyons go, but Coach Mooney welcomed her with open arms to Cross Country. Next year, Coach Mooney has high hopes for Kalmi Maheshwari, Amy Arters, Jane Rawnsley, Lisa Benson, Jessica Rawnsley, and Heather Wood. They will have to be strong, because they are losing seniors Kate McGowan, Amy Marchand, Kelly Lyons, Shannon Gallagher, Rachel Stolte, and Andrea Faustino. The underclassmen are ready for the challenge, and it won't be long before we hear the sounds of laughter over their favorite tree again.

Coach Mooney is the envy of every coach in the league. They all wonder how he gets the best foreign exchange student runners in the world to come to Seekonk. Jan Bass of Germany was no exception to Mooney's lucky streak. "From America" Mooney was also blessed with Aaron Shield and D. Erich Horton. Jan, Aaron, and D. all made the South Coast Conference All-Star team.

Although this year was young, they surprised everyone by their fast finishes. "We fooled a lot of people. We were 'expected' to finish fourth or fifth. We finished second. The difference was a belief that hard work and positive attitude combined leads to success," said Coach Mooney of the team. For years, he has been known for instilling self-esteem in his runners and his students. This helps in winning and in losing. The toughest loss for the season came against arch rival D-R. Seekonk really gave them a tough meet, but it was to no avail.

In the future, Cross Country will continue to depend on this belief, as it brings younger runners to new heights. They may be losing Jan, but they're keeping up the positive attitude. "Do it, but do it right," will continue to be their motto.

For the past three years Seekonk has been known throughout the area for its excellent field hockey. This year, it was their "little sisters" time to shine on the field. With a record of 7-4-7 overall, they proved that they were ready.

Making the South Coast Conference All-Star team were Sue Lima and Jeanne O'Loughlin. Jeanne was also named the team's M.V.P. Kim Hanoian had many shut outs at goal. Krista Geoffrey, Kate Norton, and Caryn Tobiasz were also key on the field, with Krista leading in scoring with nine goals.

From the start, they were looking for a conference title in Fantozzi style. This dream ended when a 3-3 tie with Nantucket kept them from qualifying for states. Yet, they were proud of the other fine wins behind them, including a 3-0 win over Case, reversing a loss.

Next year, the team will have to deal with the loss of seniors Kim Hanoian, Kate Mello, Jean Pierce, Manisha Patel, Heather Geoffrey, Sue Lima, Corrie Marshall, Beth Ross, and co-captains Neely Chmura and Tara Carlson. Their leaving will have an impact on the team, but there's new hope in players Shanna Souza, Kristy Foss, and Jolie Pimental.

If Coach Kulaga's golfers had anything on their side it was sheer youth. This year's golf team consisted solely of freshmen and sophomores. That might explain why this talented bunch had a 3-11 record. But, it also means that Kulaga has many years to bring their strong points to the green.

Sophomore Captain Jason Depietro had an outstanding season. He made both the S.C.C. and Sun Chronicle All-Star teams. Time can only tell how far this talented sophomore might go. Conor Murphy, an arrival from Bishop Hendricken, should do well in the future. And sophomore Jay Burns should expect to see more green grass under his feet next year. Eli Dunn had a very respectable season, and will probably be one of the team's strong players in seasons to come. Overall, Coach Kulaga was proud of the effort his golfers gave despite their youth and lack of experience. The golf team will surely see many more victories in the future.

Coach Ellis Mayer's swimmers once again had an outstanding season. The team led by co-captains Amie Geoffroy and Julie Byrne were 8-3 for the season and placed many girls on all-star teams. Kara Doheny, Nancy Longo, and Meredith Macketsy made the Southern Conference All-Star teams as well as the all star teams of local newspapers. Amie Geoffroy was selected on the Attleboro Sun Chronicle All-Star team. Kara Doheny broke the fourteen year old backstroke record, and the 200 free relay team broke the school record twice this season.

The team also had fun in the pool. The annual Swim Team Trash Bag Contest brought quite a few laughs, and proved that nice costumes can be made from trash bags. The members of En Vogue would have been jealous of their SHS Girls' Swim impersonators. Unfortunately, the team loses seniors Julie Byrne, Courtnee Saleeba, Amie Geoffroy, Tracey Morin, Kristin Hayes, and Gretchen Reinhardt. Carrying on their tradition of great swimming will be underclassmen as Lisa Helgerson, Brook Denneny, Michaela Foulkes, Nancy Longo, Meredith Macketsy, and Kara Doheny.

It seems hard to believe, but beloved and successful coach Ellis Mayers has coached the last team of his career. With his help Seekonk's male and female swimmers have earned a reputation of excellence. The boys' season of 1994 proved to be no different. Senior captain Justin Chow was effective in leading his team to victory. He worked even harder this year than he did in his previous three. This resulted in a stellar senior season for the team's only graduate.

The future of Seekonk boys' swim is strong. Sophomores Gary Jones, Chris Nicholas, and Joe Rezendes have proved early on in their careers that they are quickly reaching their potentials. Junior Matt Wills and his excellent physical strength got him far. The team was also graced with Polish exchange student David Daniel. He was an asset along with the rest of the freshmen talent. Ben Mello, Ryan Wallace, and Jason Saleeba demonstrated quick strokes.

What more could a coach ask for? By looking at the score box, it's obvious that all of this talent was able to pull together for victory. And so, althouth the pool will seem different next year without Coach, the drive and skill that he has instilled in his swimmers will echo his name for years to come.

Yet another outstanding season for the Lady Warriors, this year's team was led by captains Kelly Lyons, Heather Geoffrey, and Corrie Marshall. Highlighting the season was the first place championship at the Conference Meet. They then took fifth at the Class Meet. As usual, the Seekonk women had their share of all-stars. Krista Geoffrey, an SCC All-Star, made her mark with her skill at the hurdles. Her older sister, Heather, shared the spotlight with her shotput. Senior SCC All-Star, Kim Hanoian, also attracted a great deal of attention in the shotput category. Her furthest throw of the season was 35 feet 0 3/4, which gave her third at the Class Meet. Junior Amy Arters took second place in the 600-meter at the Class Meet, displaying her wealth of talent. Arters was also a star in the 4 X 880 relay team along with Manisha Patel, Jane Rawnsley, and Lisa Benson. Corrie Marshall was again outstanding in the high jump throughout the entire season. The quick feet of perennial favorite Amy Marchand were also a big help in this winning season. Seniors Tracey Morin and Kate McGowan were also essential for the team. Next season, Coach Seal can expect a lot from Meg Adair, Nancy Bedrossian, and quick junior Sarah Winn.

The Warriors concluded another successful season with a third place finish in the South Coast Conference, and a sixth place finish in the state out of the 38 competing teams. This year's team was captained by Steve DiLustro, Mike Carney, and Joe Beauchaine. German exchange student Jann Bass was an outstanding sprinter. He led Seekonk to sixth place at the Eastern Mass Championships. He had his season's best time in the 1000-meter there with 2:28.0. Mauricio Lucio, an exchange student from Brazil, was also a surprise asset for the team. Senior Kevin Santos was formidable at the hurdles. Steve Stock constantly placed at the top of all of his shot put competitions. Junior Jon Finley was also strong in this event. Mike Carney's strength was also essential in many of Seekonk's victories. The 4 X 880 relay team of Aaron Shield, Eli Mello, Steve DiLustro, and D. Erich Horton was also strong. Their best time of the season was 8:47.7. Aaron, along with Jan Bass, was named to the SCC All-Star team. Coach Seal can expect a great deal more from Steve DiLustro (who displayed his excellence in the 600-meter this season), Brett Marcotte, Mike DiPietro, and Chris Seal.

This year's team continued the fine tradition of basketball that Seekonk has seen of its women players over the years. Tri-Captains Kim Hallal, Danielle Solotke, and Caryn Tobiasz were phenominal as leaders and shooters, bringing the team to the state tournament. Although Kim sustained an injury, she pulled through to aid the team on the court. As center, Danielle often led the team in scoring every game. Caryn contributed many three pointers while on the court. Sophomore Beth Laprade, a two-year varsity player, led the team with Danielle in scoring. Her natural athletic ability and hunger for victory was a big help in their wins. Senior Erin Matton chipped in with her experience and quickness. Coach Kulaga will certainly miss her determination next season. As for the younger players, Kulaga couldn't be more pleased. Carol Gamboa and Kristy Foss have proven time and time again that age has nothing to do with whether a person can handle varsity ball or not. Sarah Field's height will surely be her best asset, and Jolie Pimental and Liz Medina should expect to see a great deal of court action in the years to come.

Senior Night. Last game. Shot one . . . no. Shot two . . . is it? . . . yes! . . . Bedrossian scores his 1000th point. And they won the game too!

The boys of Seekonk may not have gone to the state tournament this year, but they sure knew how to end the season with a bang. For the first time in Seekonk's 25 year history, a boy reached the 1000 point mark. Mike could have done it at O.R.R., but the team voted that his these two points should be scored at home. So, when Mike reached 998 he graciously made his way to the bench. On the floor there was a great deal of talent to pick up the slack. Eric Miller and his ability to get three pointer after three pointer contributed to this memorable season. Senior co-captain Jeff DaCosta was quick on the floor. No one could have played a steadier or more consistent game. Steve "Spags" Spagnolo chipped in with his hard earned points. He has probably improved the most of all the seniors over the past four years. Junior Joey Wills may not have had great height, but that did not prevent him from putting that ball in the basket. Greg Rebello also saw his share of court time. Rounding out the pack were John Assermely, Ed Tessier, Craig Nadeau, Jim Whittaker, and Joe Saunders — a crowd favorite.

Seekonk Hockey may not have dominated every opponent in the winter of 1994, but they certainly pleased their fans with the change in their program. First, a new coach. Scott Slaiding helped the Warrior Ice-Men win many more games than they had in past years. Senior co-captain Brian Rickard set a goal for himself of two goals a game. Whether or not he achieved this at every game did not matter. His drive to score with every puck that was passed to him led him to breaking the school's scoring record and becoming one of the top players in the league. Senior goalie Anthony Arrigo helped the team to their victories by steadily improving his skills over the years, which payed off in his senior year for himself and for the team. The fans were also pleased by the play of Kyle Gannon, Dave Pereira, Steve Nerone, and Ken Morey. All of them were known as tough contenders in the league. Evan Akers, a senior and first timer on the team, did his best to give the team a successful season. In the upcoming years, Coach Slaiding can expect some find playing from such players as Matt Sluter and Tyler Scott.

SEEKONK

It was not one of Seekonk High's finer football games, but the spirit in the stands was strong. Although the final score of 46-6 in Wareham's favor, we did not care. We were here on this dreary rainy day to bring support to our school and to our team, and we did just that.

This year, instead of making floats, each class gathered together and marched around the football field to depict Seekonk's rejuvenated sense of pride. The homecoming kings and queens were driven around the field in grand style by a limousine. If there were a "Most Homecoming Spirit" award, it would have to go to sophomore Erik Salvail and his warrior costume (see below). It must also be noted that junior Jeanne O'Loughlin definitely scared some people in the crowd with her unusual furry costume. The freshman class, wowed us with their enthusiasm. And of course, the seniors were there in unity to support Seekonk at their final Homecoming game as Seekonk High School students. Hopefully next year we'll compete in float decoration again and bring more luck to the team. As for now, we will remember Homecoming '93 as a day signifying the change in Seekonk football for the better.

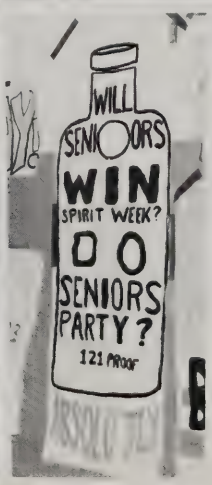
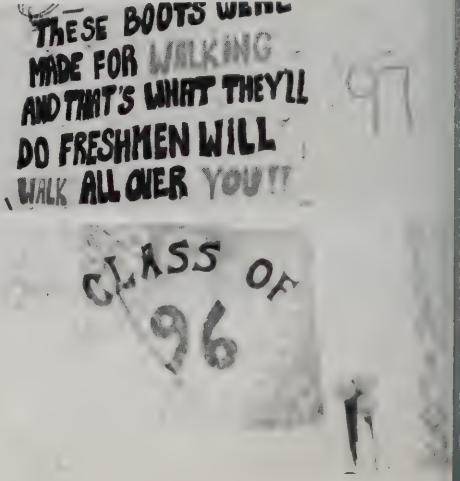
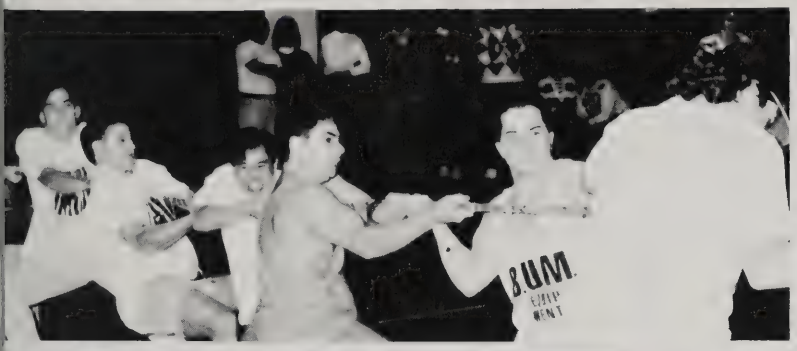
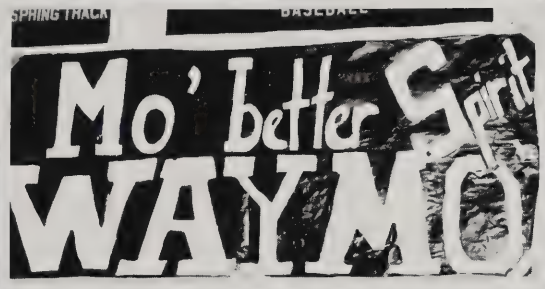
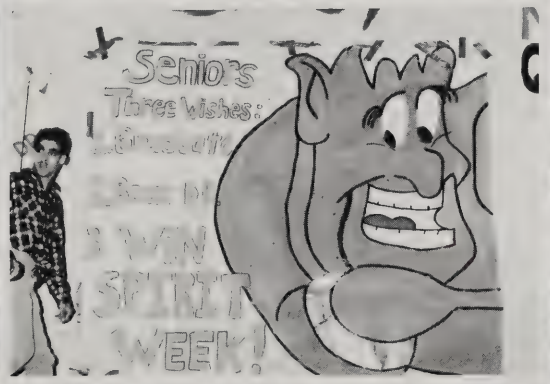
SPIRIT WEEK 1993

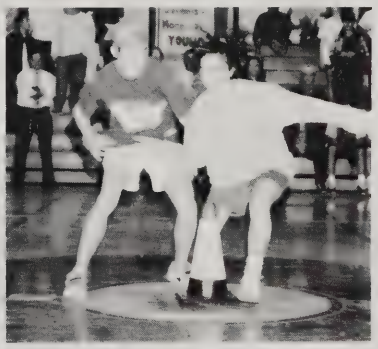


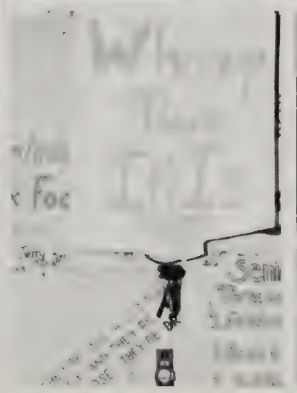


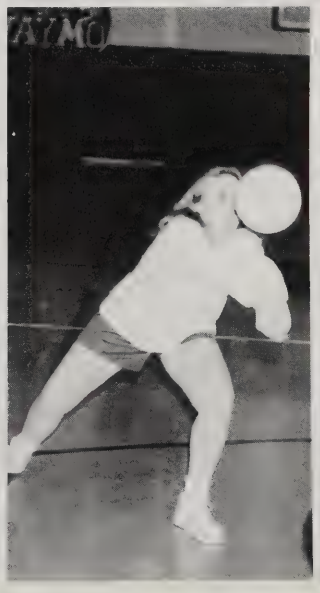












WHOOMP THERE IT IS! The class of '94 finally won Spirit Week. And, in true Spirit Week fashion, '95, '96, and '97 finished second, third, and fourth respectively. Festivities started with the making of posters. The Lyons family graciously welcomed a band of seniors with paint into their garage. It looked shaky for the seniors when they were defeated by the juniors in trivia thanks to the "Alice's Restaurant" question answered by Matt Rochefort. But, they seemed to win almost everything else with ease. Although, it was rumored that they cheated in the can drive competition we find this hard to believe. Nevertheless, this year's pre-Turkey Day festivities were one of the best in years, which can be attributed to the many senior members of the football team, and their gaining strength in the league. Surprisingly, the freshmen had the audacity to come over to the senior bleachers and taunt them. They quickly learned their lesson. And once again, Jeanne O'Loughlin shared her talents as that lovable bear she likes to dress up as. Next year, two things will be different. One, there will be no Steal the Bacon (how's your head Jane Rawnsley?). And two, Seekonk will beat D-R 7-2 (at least), not the other way around.

SAKAE HIGASHI & SEEKONK

It doesn't look anything like those John Hughs films

December second and third were much awaited days at Seekonk High. For on these days, almost three hundred students from Sakae Higashi High School in Japan arrived to participate in a cultural exchange.

Both mornings began with a round of applause as they entered the auditorium. Our chorus sang our and their national anthems, and the Japanese students sang many of their favorites. Students from both schools gave speeches about what their schools are like. A deafening hush came over the Seekonk crowd when we learned how many days of school they have.

Despite the language barrier everyone seemed to communicate well. The Seekonk guides and Japanese students ate burgers, fries, chicken nuggets, and pizza in the cafeteria to give the all male school a taste of teenage American cuisine. They gave us many gifts reflecting their culture, and we managed to play volleyball with them too. After the school tour, we sadly watched them climb onto their buses to New York City. To our surprise, Seekonk was the highlight of their trip. Who knows, maybe we'll be going to Japan someday. For now, we should start learning Japanese.

MUSIC

Through all of Seekonk's tough financial times, Mr. Richard "Uncle Dick" Messier never gave up, and guided musicians that were small in numbers, but talented nevertheless. Senior Lynn Russell astounded us with her beautiful voice and finesse on the clarinet. Brian Rickard, also a senior, performed in the band, and in a Rhode Island jazz band, on the drums. He played at First Night in Providence, and showed us he could Rock 'N Roll, along with Jon and Chris Abell in their band Dominion. The Abells not only play guitar, but also picked up singing, and performed with the chorus. Gretchen Reinhardt and Jennifer Kenyon, on the flute and clarinet respectively, hung in there as well, and made music dance in our ears. Liz Ferreira on flute, could also be seen as drum major, as band president, at football games, at pep rally's and as a majorette.

The chorus improved greatly with the arrival of Ms. Karen Rodderick last year. They performed their three part harmonies for visiting Japanese students, residents of the Seekonk Commons, and at the winter and spring concerts. Julie Forsher, Kelly Sousa, and Corrie Marshall performed solo accompaniments. The vocal talents of Amy Slater and Jennifer Harris should also be noted. This year chorus graduates its three officers Lynn Russell, Jon Abell, and Katie Burns. And, Erin Matton, Lisa Jones, Chris Abell, Amy Spevack, Mary Gousie, and Corrie Marshall.

The majorettes and color guard, two of the most talented groups in the high school were again outstanding in competition. The majorettes performed for us during Spirit Week as well. They graduate seniors Liz Ferreira and Mary Gousie. The color guard, although small in the photo, perform along with members of their group who are students at the junior high school. Both majorette and color guard competitions are great events to see. The blend of color, dance, and talent is absolutely beautiful.

STV News

1993-1994 has landed SHS in the twenty first century. In every homeroom, students watched Channel 1 News, which broadcasted to thousands of high schools across the country. The Whittle Corporation provided all of the televisions. On F-days, Seekonk High broadcasted its own news program. The student Council officers made the daily morning announcements from the news desk as opposed to the P.A. system. Julie Forsher brightened our days with weather and birthday wishes, while Lisa Gertrudes gave us "This Day In History." Kelly Hawkins, Brock Sousa, and Marcie Bricault presented us with special reports on life at SHS.

The Inquisitor

With the patient help of Mrs.Sally Wing, the Inquisitor staff produced a newspaper for the second consecutive year. They explored issues like the curriculum change, and profiled our foreign exchange students. And, they fostered interests in creative writing by encouraging young writers to contribute their work. Jen Eno could often be seen roving the corridors in search of the perfect picture while Steve Stock could always be depended upon for a sports article. The making of a newspaper is a difficult job, and these students should be congratulated for taking time of their own to give back to the school.

Science Club

After a comeback of the Science Club last year, it now has a sound base. With students Lauren Havrylik, Marta Peimer, and Heather Wood, and Mr. Norman Corriveau as their adviser, the Science Club members now organize their own field trips at least once a month. These excursions have included such places as the New England Science Center, Purgatory Chasm, and the New England Aquarium. Students usually take trips on Saturdays, spending the whole day enhancing their knowledge of science. Next year they will sponsor the school's science fair. In times of increasing technology, scientific knowledge is useful in everyday life. These students are way ahead of the game.

SADD

Students Against Drunk Driving with advisor Mr. Robert Frazer, did their best to inform the student body of the perils of drunk driving. Since so many students are in the habit of foolishly and stupidly driving while intoxicated, this group is desperately needed. Around prom time, they dressed in black and painted their faces white to remind people that they can die if they drive drunk. Throughout the day, while dressed in black they cannot speak to any of the students. It is truly eerie, and does make you think. Hopefully their efforts will save lives.

Office Management

"Hello, Seekonk High School." If by chance you happened to call Seekonk High School during the day, you most likely had your phone call answered by a member of the Office Management Club. Under the guidance of Mrs. Christiansen, they manned the guidance and office phones to help secretaries, and helped the school day run more smoothly by running needed copies on a copy machine. A club such as this helps students learn valuable job skills that are necessary in todays job market. Many students who have been through this program are practically prepared for a job right after graduation. Others have gone on to college, with the hopes of getting a business degree.

Shattered Lives

This group of concerned teenagers gave their time to participate in a play that portrayed the horrors of drunk driving. Directed by Rob Allen and advised by Mr. Frazer, the play was basically unscripted, which required the actors to use their emotions spontaneously. Therefore, the play differed slightly with each performance. Veteran SHS actors Tania Tracy and Jay Pedro led the way with the acting, while younger students gained valuable experience about acting and knowledge about the dangers of drinking carelessly. The play was performed with high praise from the student body.

Row One: Tracy Tyler, Darlene Menard, Amy Foss, Floyd Narcisse, Jennifer Swallow, Lisa Carney, Mary Gousie, Marcie Bricault, Michelle Brousseau, Kate Amaral; Two: Kristin Edmondson, Tania Tracy, Jane Rawnsley, Jessica N. Script Time

Row One: Marcie Bricault, Joe Felix, Philip Yan, Don Barlow, Darlene Menard, Lisa Carney, Chrissy Michaluk, Tracey Silva, Amy Felix, Amy Foss; Two: Natalie Gruppuso, Paula Yan, Kelly Hawkins, Aaron Fiske, Nancy Bedrossian, Tracy Tyler, Katie Burns, Sean O'Connell, Chris Pereira; Three: Carla Costa, Kate Amaral, Christina Gruppuso, Fatima Lima, Sarah Fiske, Tania Tracy, Jon Ambler, Jennifer Swallow, Kristin Edmondson, Michelle Bousseau; Not Shown: Erik Salvail, Cati Wahl

Those shy actors!

This year's production was a difficult one because, after casting was done the actor with the male lead of Mr. Smith in "Meet Me in St. Louis" decided to relinquish his role. The search for a new Mr. Smith went on, but to no avail. Not one actor could be found. So, to the dismay of Mrs. Smith (Katie Burns) and his daughter Tootie (Amy Foss), the play which was to be directed by Abi Darling had to be called off.

One the up side, "A Case For Two Detectives" directed by Tania Tracy, performed at the Massachusetts Drama Festival. Mrs. Salvail, the group's advisor should be heartily thanked for all the time and effort she put into her job. Perhaps next year, the drama club will find that there are less boys with stage fright next year. Assistant director Nancy Bedrossian assures us that there will be no troubles next year. At the festival Jay Pedro and Lisa Carney made the All-Star cast. With this kind of talent the future should be great.

RENAISSANCE

During the 1992-1993 school year, a group of students and teachers decided to try to end the bad feelings at S.H.S. that were created by budget problems in the town, and instill pride once again. The plan was revealed at the first Pride Day Assembly. Students were honored for their athletic, artistic, and academic pursuits. Teachers and members of the community were also cited for their contributions to the Seekonk High community. Mural committees were formed to bring color to the walls of S.H.S.

During the first assembly of this year, Mrs. Gorman our retiring librarian and Mrs. Macedo a retired cook were honored. The latter was moved to tears. Music was provided by Jon Abell, Chris Abell, Brian Rickard, and J.T. Gaebe (a friend from Freehan) of the band Dominion. Roseann Arrigo also stunned us with her vocal talent. The next assembly gave us music from Jon, Chris, Brian, Mike Hoogerzeil, Jay Burns, and Geoff Metfooney.

On a daily basis, advisor Mr. Frank Mooney continued to instill pride in us through his attitude and project Renaissance (Pride). The co-coordinators of Renaissance, Aaron Shield and Jen Eno, tried very hard to insure that the work the group had done continued to make change at S.H.S. This year, the students of the South Coast Collaborative came to the high school. Brother/Sister Day was created so the Collaborative students could become better acquainted with the school. Those students that participated can be seen in the inset photographs.

FACULTY

For many years, Seekonk High School librarian Mrs. Semia Gorman saw many of us enter her doors seeking knowledge. She patiently helped us with our reports and papers, and with pleasure located books for us to read. In December of 1993, Mrs. Gorman retired. We would like to use this space to show Mrs. Gorman how special she was to us. Good luck Mrs. Gorman in your retirement. Whenever we turn to the pages of our 1993-1994 faculty your kind face will always appear to our eyes first.

You know how you meet somebody and it takes awhile to get to know them 'cause you're kinda shy 'cause that's just how you are and then you get to know them and then you find out that they're really nice and then you really like them and they leave? I hate when that happens. thanks for being there for me! Kathy, CD, SW, MG, EF, KN, JD, WC, BS, AM, EV, JS

Fiskey: Thanks for being there for all those years. I wish you all the best. Just stay away from the ice cream. HaHa. I hope to see you as a friend of mine for the rest of my life. Love, Katie

Julie F.: I hope that all of your Brady Bunch-Grease Lightning-Geometric dreams come true. I'll never forget you, and hopefully we'll keep in touch so I don't have to. Name a kid after me and sing it a lullaby. Love, Katie

Class of 1994

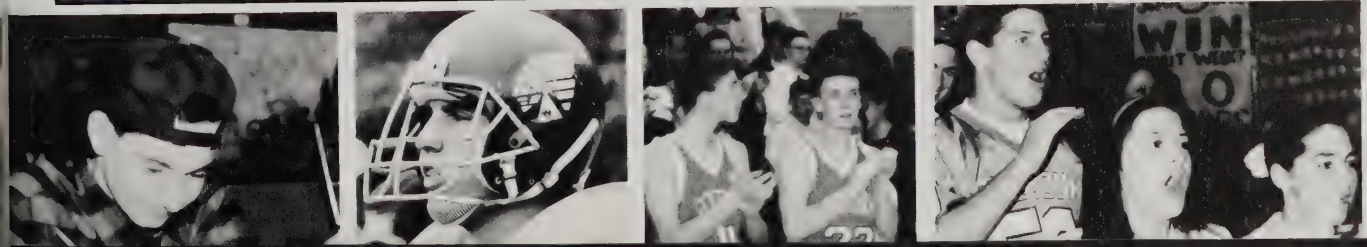
160 Dean Street
Seekonk, MA 02771



In September, a puzzle called Seekonk High 1993-1994 was waiting to be put together. The freshmen puzzle was looking to link itself with the high school. Sophomores were ecstatic because they no longer felt like they didn't fit. Juniors knew exactly where to go and snapped right into place. Seniors were thinking that this was their final Seekonk High puzzle. They were glad. They knew it was time to move on. Yet, their pieces are the most bittersweet. They have weathered year after year, puzzle after puzzle. Somehow they made it. The teachers certainly helped. They made sure that each of them fit into the school piece, that the school piece fit into the athletics piece, or activities piece, or friendship piece, etcetera. The puzzle is together for such a short time that thinking about how it was put together is wasted energy. Be content knowing that your piece of the puzzle was necessary to make Seekonk's puzzle complete.

Soon, the senior pieces will be all over the country. The 1993-1994 puzzle will never exist again. Each piece must continue to grow and change and find a new puzzle to be part of. And so, our puzzle is again just scattered pieces. Someday, we will all find the puzzles in which we finally belong. Each piece fit so well here, and in turn will fit so well again.
